(DIBP Presentation, Joe Franzi, 'Australian Advanced Passenger Processing (APP)', 10). ALOs 'also work in close consultation with airlines, airport security groups and host government authorities offshore to prevent the travel of improperly documented passengers and facilitate the travel of genuine passengers' while supporting 'regional immigration partners to enhance their effectiveness in detecting the movement of people on false documentation.' An INTERPOL 'red notice' is an international request 'for cooperation or alerts allowing police in member countries to share critical crime-related information' and border officials can access INTERPOL 'databases in real-time, for information such as wanted persons, stolen travel documents or stolen vehicles' to help 'them to identify people attempting to enter a country illegally', for example. (INTERPOL 2018 Annual Report, 4-5). In 1997, the UN General Assembly resolved to urge member countries to systematically use INTERPOL's databases and information in the process of examining asylum seekers. (Resolution No. 9, GA-2017-86-RES-09). In addition to making it more difficult for an asylum seeker to flee without a valid passport or visa, countries of persecution have also used INTERPOL red notices to request that refugees or asylum seekers be provisionally arrested in any member-state pending extradition, as in the case of Hakeem Al-Arabi. Air Arrival Screened Out	Legal Service Providers	Direct	'Legal assistance is crucial to ensuring that people seeking asylum are afforded due process, enabling them to navigate a complex legal system, properly present their protection claims, and challenge erroneous decisions. This is particularly important because people seeking asylum may experience language and cultural barriers, trauma and vulnerability in the community. (DIBP Presentation, Joe Franzi, 'Australian Advanced Passenger Processing (APP)', 10). ALOs 'also work in close consultation with airlines, airport security groups and host government authorities offshore to prevent the travel of improperly documented passengers and facilitate the travel of genuine passengers' while supporting 'regional immigration partners to enhance their effectiveness in detecting the movement of people on false documentation.' INTERPOL also manages '18 police databases with information on crimes and criminals (from names and fingerprints to stolen passports)' and offers 'investigative support such as forensics, analysis, and assistance in locating fugitives around the world.' In 1997, the UN General Assembly resolved to urge member countries to systematically use INTERPOL's databases and information in the process of examining asylum seekers. (Resolution No. 9, GA-2017-86-RES-09). In addition to making it more difficult for an asylum seeker to flee without a valid passport or visa, countries of persecution have also used INTERPOL red notices to request that refugees or asylum seekers be provisionally arrested in any member-state pending extradition, as in the case of Hakeem Al-Arabi. Air Arrival Screened In	Administrative Appeals Tribunal	Direct	The AAT is a statutorily independent tribunal that conducts merits review of administrative decisions made under Commonwealth laws. (AAT Annual Report 2018-19, 10). 'Merits review involves taking a fresh look at the facts, law and policy' relating to a decision and can include new information (in most cases) that was not available to the original decision-maker. (Ibid.) The Tribunal can 'exercise all the powers and discretions available to the original decision-maker.' (Ibid.) The AAT has a single specified outcome to 'provide correct or preferable decisions through a mechanism of independent review of administrative decisions that is accessible, fair, just, economical, informal, quick and proportionate.' (Ibid at 11.) The AAT houses the Migration and Refugee Division, which provides independent review of protection visa cases.

Air Arrival Screened In	Migration and Refugee Division_AAT	Direct	'The Migration and Refugee Division reviews decisions made under the Migration Act relating to a wide range of visas that permit non-citizens to travel to, enter and remain in Australia on a permanent or temporary basis. They include decisions to refuse to grant visas and to cancel visas, as well as related decisions to refuse to approve business sponsors, nominated positions and business activities.' (AAT Annual Report 2018-19, 33). Reviewable decisions are generally made by delegates of the Minister administering the Migration Act. (Ibid.) Parts 5 and 7 of the Migration Act 1958 provide for the review of decisions by the AAT in the Migration and Refugee Division. (Ibid at 10). Part 5 relates to decisions to grant or cancel visas in some circumstances. (AAT Migration and Refugee Division Legal Services, 'A Guide to Refugee Law in Australia' (2019) 12-3). Part 7 generally relates to protection visas. Some other decisions under the Act are reviewable by the AAT in its general division, including some decisions relating to deportation, protection visas, and the refusal or cancellation of visas on character grounds. (Ibid at 12-2-3). The AAT prepares and publishes policy and procedure documents, 'designed to help parties and their representatives understand our processes and what is expected of them during a review.' (AAT Annual Report 2018-19, 16).

(AAT Annual Report 2018-19, 15). 'Case assessment registrars and caseload practice managers undertake early case assessment and triaging of different types of applications in the Migration and Refugee Division' and 'dedicated national teams provided caseload support and legal services for the Migration and Refugee Division'. (Ibid.) 'Principal Registry staff advise and assist the President and the Registrar in managing the AAT's administrative affairs' and 'are responsible for business

Air Arrival Screened In	Federal Circuit Court	Direct	The jurisdiction of the Court includes administrative law, human rights, and migration, among other areas. (Federal Circuit Court Annual Report 2018-19, 15). The Court conducts 'most first instance judicial reviews of visa-related decisions of the AAT and the Immigration Assessment Authority', but 'does not have jurisdiction to undertake a merits review of these types of decisions.' (Ibid at 17). The Court has specialist panels 'which ensure that matters of a specialist legal nature are allocated to judges with expertise in that particular area of the Court's jurisdiction', including in migration and administrative law. (Ibid at 29). The specialist panels are also 'an essential element of continuing judicial education within the federal circuit court.' (Ibid at 29). '[A]s many litigants in migration matters are self-represented, particularly those seeking review of protection visa decisions, there is a greater need for pro bono representation or other legal representation, particularly as legal aid is unavailable to protection visa applicants who are in migration detention. the Court has found it essential to set up a pro bono scheme (similar to that which operates in the Federal Court).' (Ibid at 50).
Air Arrival Screened In	Federal Court	Direct	The Federal Court issues national guides in subject areas, including migration. (Federal Court of Australia Annual Report 2018-19, 23). 'Migration cases may be heard by the Federal Court or the Federal Circuit Court. However, in many matters, the original jurisdiction of the Federal Court is limited by the Migration Act and most first instance applications must be heard in the Federal Circuit Court.' (www.fedcourt.gov.au/law-and-practice/guides/migration) 'If the migration matter is an appeal from the Federal Circuit Court or an appeal-related application, then the Federal Court will generally have jurisdiction to hear it within the Court's appellate jurisdiction.' (Ibid.) 'If the Federal Court has original jurisdiction in relation to a migration decision', 'that jurisdiction is the same as the jurisdiction of the High Court of Australia under paragraph 75(v) of the Commonwealth Constitution.' (Ibid.) 'A "migration decision" under the Migration Act includes privative clause decisions, purported privative clause decisions and non-privative clause decisions' and a decision 'includes the granting, giving, suspending, cancelling, revoking or refusing to give a certificate, direction, approval, consent or permission, including a visa. It also includes a failure or refusal to make a decision.' (Ibid.) The court uses 'procedures to streamline the preparation and conduct of these appeals and applications and to facilitate the expeditious management of the migration workload. The Court reviews all migration matters to identify cases raising similar issues and where there is a history of previous litigation. This process allows for similar cases to be managed together resulting in more timely and efficient disposal of matters. Then, all migration-related appellate proceedings (whether to be heard by a single judge or by a Full Court) are listed for hearing in the next scheduled Full Court and appellate sitting period.' (Federal Court of Australia Annual Report 2018-19, 29).

(Federal Circuit Court Annual Report 2018-19, 5). '[M]igration represents the largest jurisdiction in the court's general federal law defended hearing list', which has placed pressure on judicial resources. (Ibid at 42). Registrars assist the court in the 'early identification of matters that may have implications for a wider cohort, particularly those relating to the 'fast track caseload'' and where litigants are in detention, to assist the court. (Ibid.)
Air Arrival Screened In	High Court	Direct	The 'High Court has original jurisdiction in matters defined by s 75 of the Constitution and original jurisdiction conferred by laws made by the Parliament under s 76 of the Constitution — including jurisdiction in any matter arising under the Constitution or involving its interpretation, or in any matter arising under any laws made by the Parliament. The High Court is also the final court of appeal for all other Federal courts or courts exercising federal jurisdiction'. (High Court of Australia Annual Report 2018-19, 5). 'The Justices administer the affairs of the Court pursuant to s 17 of the High Court of Australia Act 1979 (Cth). The Justices are assisted in that task by the Chief Executive and Principal Registrar ... and by senior staff of the Court.' (Ibid.)
Air Arrival Screened In	Principal Registry of the High Court of Australia	Direct	Most of litigants' contact with the High Court is with Registry staff, who 'explain and answer questions about how the Court works, its practices and procedures', tell what forms people may need to use, check forms for completeness, and give information about how a matter will be managed 'and what steps may be involved in getting the matter ready.' (Info Registry Services 2020).

(Ibid.) 'Bilateral and multilateral engagement shapes international standards.' (Ibid.). 'ICAO's other activities in the field of aviation security include efforts to enhance the security of travel documents and improve the training of security personnel. In addition, ICAO provides support for regional security initiatives with the aim of strengthening aviation security globally.' (icao.int/Security/Pages/default.aspx). 'The Facilitation Section of Aviation Security and Facilitation is responsible for the management of three interrelated programmes: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Annex 9 – Facilitation Standards and Recommended Practices (SARPs); • Development and implementation of the ICAO Traveller Identification Programme (TRIP) Strategy; and • Management of the ICAO Public Key Directory (PKD). These three programmes have the same objective, facilitation, which is the efficient management of border control processes to expedite clearance (of aircraft, passengers/crew, baggage, cargo) and prevent unnecessary delays.' (Ibid.)
Air Arrival Not Screened	International Air Transport Association	Indirect	IATA aims to 'assist airlines by simplifying processes and increasing passenger convenience while reducing costs and improving efficiency.' (www.iata.org/en/about/mission). For example, IATA has developed a Code of Conduct for Immigration Liaison Officers overseas, which Australian ALOs work within. (FOI Decision FA190901016). The United Kingdom has advocated for inclusion of the Code of Conduct in the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) Facilitation Manual. (See Facilitation (FAL) Division – 12th Session, 'Agenda Item 4: Controlling travel document fraud and illegal migration', 22 March – 2 April 2004, FAL/12-WP/40).
Air Arrival Not Screened	United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime	Indirect	'The Commission on Narcotic Drugs and the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice, as governing bodies of UNODC, provide UNODC with specific mandates, which consistently indicate the need to integrate human rights in States' response to drugs, crime and terrorism, through various resolutions.' 			through field-oriented projects and programmes', and address 'new and emerging forms of crime, such as cybercrime' (UNODC Annual Report 2018, 7). UNODC also plays a key role in the Bali Process. Reports and information produced by UNODC are used by lawmakers and states to develop policy and operational practices. (ie: 'One in particular I've got here is from the United Nation's Office on Drugs and Crime entitled Global study on smuggling of migrants 2018 It says that smuggling of migrants by air is a business operated by organised crime.' Senate Estimates, Sen. Ciccone, Legal and Constitutional Affairs Legislation Committee (21 Oct 2019) 30.)
Air Arrival Not Screened	The Bali Process	Indirect	'The Bali Process achieves both high-level political dialogue, including regular Ministerial conferences and practical capacity-building activities at officials level. DFAT works within a Whole-of-Government context, with the Department of Home Affairs and others in leading different Bali Process working groups. ... The Seventh Bali Process Ministerial Conference in August 2018 achieved significant outcomes in addressing people smuggling, human trafficking and irregular migration in the region. Members agreed to the 2018 Bali Declaration, which reaffirmed the inaugural 2016 declaration, and commits members to enhanced cooperation on addressing human trafficking, improving information and policy sharing, promoting regular migration pathways, and countering criminal networks.' (www.dfat.gov.au/international-relations/themes/people-smuggling-trafficking/Pages/the-bali-process). The Strategy for Cooperation endorsed in 2018 guides the Regional Support Office Strategic Plan to 'Encourage unified transnational action on refugee protection and international migration including people smuggling, trafficking in persons and border management, through information sharing including the exchange of best practice and matching expertise between Bali Process Member States'. (RSO Annual Work Plan 2020, 4). As reflected in the 7 August 2018 Declaration of the Seventh Ministerial Conference of the Bali Process, member states are 'concerned by displacement and the irregular movement of persons, which is a complex challenge' and 'commit to preventing displaced persons from becoming victims of people smuggling and trafficking in persons, and support their voluntary, sustainable, and dignified return.' (Declaration of the Seventh Ministerial Conference of The Bali Process on People Smuggling, Trafficking in Persons and Related Transnational Crime, para 7).
Air Arrival Not Screened	Translators_ Interpreters	Direct	Interpreters and translators are private contractors who play a critical role in essentially every stage of the protection or asylum process, from communicating a fear of return to officials upon entry to Australia, to communicating with medical professionals in the immigration medical exam, to communicating with Department officials examining protection claims, or courts and tribunals reviewing the decisions of Departmental delegates.

Air Arrival Not Screened	Commercial Airlines	Direct	Airlines are subject to a number of rules and regulations, including transport security legislation and carrier sanctions which penalise airlines for transporting improperly documented passengers, regardless of whether they are asylum seekers or are ultimately granted protection. (DHA Annual Report 2018-19, 40). DHA works 'closely with industry participants to improve understanding of, and compliance with, obligations under transport security legislation.' (DHA Annual Report 2018-19, 44). DHA does this by 'providing online training and guidance materials', 'contributing to agency-sponsored industry forums and working groups', 'ensuring effective administrative decision making, including providing detailed reasons where a submission was refused', and 'responding to enquiries received through the Department's Guidance Centre.' (Ibid.) Commercial airlines are also responsible for providing advance passenger processing (APP) for all passengers and crew, while airline check in staff are required to confirm that a travel document is acceptable for travel to Australia, perform a face-to-face passport check, check the validity of the passenger's travel document, confirm visa requirements and whether the traveller's visa is valid, and not board a passenger when the APP system returns a 'Do Not Board' directive. (DIBP Presentation, Joe Franzi, 'Australian Advanced Passenger Processing (APP)', 10). ALOs 'also work in close consultation with airlines, airport security groups and host government authorities offshore to prevent the travel of improperly documented passengers and facilitate the travel of genuine passengers' while supporting 'regional immigration partners to enhance their effectiveness in detecting the movement of people on false documentation.' (ABF Factbook - 2019, 25).
Air Arrival Not Screened	Foreign Airports	Direct	Overseas airports work with ABF Airport Liaison Officers (ALOs) to assist in 'preventing the travel of improperly documented passengers and to facilitate the travel of genuine passengers.' (2016 APEC Counter-Terrorism Action Plan, 2). Australia's ALOs also 'provide training to airline and airport staff in document examination, passenger assessment, facial image comparison techniques and Australia's entry requirements.' (Ibid.) ALOs 'work in close consultation with airlines, airport security groups and host government authorities offshore to prevent the travel of improperly documented passengers and facilitate the travel of genuine passengers' while supporting 'regional immigration partners to enhance their effectiveness in detecting the movement of people on false documentation.' (ABF Factbook 2019, 25). The DHA also funds 'the establishment of international border clearance capabilities for emerging international airports and ports.' (DHA Portfolio Budget Statements 2019-20, 57).
Air Arrival Not Screened	Australian Airports	Direct	Australian airports are generally privately controlled and are subject to a variety of regulatory and legislative requirements, particularly regarding safety and security. (ICAO Working

			Paper 59, ‘Developments in Airport Ownership and Reforms to the Provision of Air Navigation Services in Australia’, ANSConf-WP/59/9/6/00, 3-6); (Australian Airports Association, ‘Strategic Plan 2020-2025’, 5). Airports must undertake infrastructure development and operations to comply with DHA airport security requirements and enable ABF to facilitate passenger processing. (Australian Airports Association, ‘Strategic Plan 2020-2025’, 7). DHA also works ‘closely with industry participants to improve understanding of, and compliance with, obligations under transport security legislation.’ (DHA Annual Report 2018-19, 44).
Air Arrival Not Screened	Interpol	Indirect	INTERPOL connects member countries through a communications system called I-24/7, through which they can contact each other, the General Secretariat, and access databases and services in real-time, from both central and remote locations. (interpol.int/en/Who-we-are/What-is-INTERPOL). INTERPOL also manages ‘18 police databases with information on crimes and criminals (from names and fingerprints to stolen passports)’ and offers ‘investigative support such as forensics, analysis, and assistance in locating fugitives around the world.’ (Ibid.) An INTERPOL ‘red notice’ is an international request ‘for cooperation or alerts allowing police in member countries to share critical crime-related information’ and border officials can access INTERPOL ‘databases in real-time, for information such as wanted persons, stolen travel documents or stolen vehicles’ to help ‘them to identify people attempting to enter a country illegally’, for example. (INTERPOL 2018 Annual Report, 4-5). In 1997, the UN General Assembly resolved to urge member countries to systematically use INTERPOL’s databases and information in the process of examining asylum seekers. (Resolution No. 9, GA-2017-86-RES-09). In addition to making it more difficult for an asylum seeker to flee without a valid passport or visa, countries of persecution have also used INTERPOL red notices to request that refugees or asylum seekers be provisionally arrested in any member-state pending extradition, as in the case of Hakeem Al-Arabi. (https://www.smh.com.au/national/hakeem-al-araibi-s-treatment-shows-up-red-faces-at-interpol-20190214-p50xre.html). AFP and INTERPOL receive true match notification and client information from Australian Border Operations Centre and AFP, INTERPOL and ABF character cancellations interface in the context of a Red Notice. (21 October 2019 Senate Estimates, p 55).
